NASHVILLE -- The Tennessee Army National Guard's 1175th Transportation Company, composed of units from Tullahoma, Brownsville and Jacksboro, will depart Thursday, May 10, for its mobilization site in Ft. Bragg, North Carolina.

They are being mobilized in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom, but the transportation company's ultimate destination is not being disclosed.

Brownsville and Jacksboro National Guardsmen are already at the Tullahoma armory awaiting the early morning departure Thursday.

Approximately 235 soldiers from the three cities, including volunteers from other parts of Tennessee will undergo a train-up period at Ft. Bragg for an unspecified period of time.

The National Guard soldiers will begin boarding buses at the Tullahoma armory Thursday at approximately 7:30 a.m. and move out between 7:30 and 8:00
